The shares are held in dematerialised form and are not pledged. Trade receivables are spread across six customers. A loan was given to a related party, Sample Trading LLP, which has not serviced it since 2024. Surplus cash is held in a debt mutual fund and bank accounts.

i) Valuation Currency(ies) and Measurement

Valuation currency: INR. Amounts are in INR crore unless stated otherwise.

j) Sources of Information

- Audited financial statements of the corporate debtor and the subsidiary for FY24 to FY26
- Projections for FY27 to FY31 prepared by subsidiary management
- Shareholding pattern and demat statement
- Receivables ledger and ageing as on the insolvency commencement date
- Bank statements and mutual fund account statement
- Discussions with management along with the resolution professional

k) Basis(es) and Premise of Value Adopted

Basis Adopted

Valuation Purpose	Basis
Determination of fair value under the IBC	Fair value
Determination of liquidation value under the IBC	Liquidation value

The basis of valuations under IBC is to determine the fair value and liquidation value as per relevant regulations.

Premise Adopted

Asset Type	Premise Adopted	Remarks/Justification
Equity shares of Sample Packaging Pvt Ltd (74%)	Going concern	Liquidation value reflects a forced sale of an unlisted stake
Trade receivables	Orderly realisation	See receivables schedule
Loan to Sample Trading LLP	Orderly realisation	Related party; not serviced since 2024
Units of a debt mutual fund	Market value	NAV as on the valuation date
Balances with banks	Face value	-

l) Valuation Standards Followed

[SAMPLE] Valuation Standards notified by the Board. The valuer lists each standard and section applied here.

m) Valuation Approaches and Methods or Valuation Model(s) Applied

The income approach values the subsidiary on the cash flows it is expected to generate, using a discounted cash flow of free cash flow to the firm. The market approach values it on multiples of comparable listed companies. The cost approach is not used for the subsidiary because it does not reflect its earning capacity as a going concern.

Approach	Applicable	Method adopted	Weight	Reason
Income	Yes	Discounted cash flow (FCFF)	60%	Management projections are available and were discussed with the Committee of Creditors.
Market	Yes	Comparable companies (EV/EBITDA)	40%	Listed packaging companies with similar operations exist.
Cost	No	Adjusted net asset value	-	Not adopted: net assets do not reflect the subsidiary's earning capacity as a going concern.

Meetings with the Committee of Creditors

The methodology was explained to the Committee of Creditors at its meeting on 25/05/2026.

n) Relevant discounts and premiums

Adjustment	Applied to	Rate
Discount for lack of marketability	Concluded equity value of the valued entity	15.00%
Liquidation discount	Equity shares of Sample Packaging Pvt Ltd (74%)	45.00%
Liquidation discount	Loan to Sample Trading LLP	50.00%
Liquidation discount	Units of a debt mutual fund	2.00%
Receivable recovery haircuts	Trade receivables	See Annexure B

A 15% discount for lack of marketability is applied to the subsidiary's equity value because the shares are unlisted and a minority buyer would face a long sale process. Liquidation values apply recovery percentages that reflect a forced sale within the liquidation timeline.

o) Sources of Data and Inputs used along with rationale/justification

- Risk-free rate: yield on 10-year government securities
- Equity risk premium and beta: published market studies and comparable companies
- Comparable listed companies: five packaging companies (illustrative peers)
- Projections: subsidiary management, discussed with the Committee of Creditors

Comparable company data and the multiples derived from it are set out in Annexure A.

p) Description of Inspections and/or Investigations Undertaken

- Visit to the registered office on 05/05/2026
- Management interviews
- Review of the loan agreement with Sample Trading LLP and customer contracts

q) Assessment of Sustainability and Functional Factors Considered

Governance: the subsidiary has a three-member board and clean audit reports. Customers: the top three customers make up about half of revenue. Business risks: polymer price volatility and customer concentration.

r) Significant or Special Assumptions, and/or Limiting Conditions

- Reliance on management representations for projections
- No contingent liabilities beyond those disclosed in the audited accounts
- No pending litigation affecting the subsidiary's shares

Model conventions

- The valuation date is taken as the start of the first projected year.
- Cash flows are discounted from the middle of each year.
- The terminal value uses the Gordon growth method on the final year's free cash flow and is discounted from the end of the final projected year.

s) Value and Rationale for Valuation

Asset	Book value	Fair value	Liquidation value
Equity shares of Sample Packaging Pvt Ltd (74%)	40.00	43.21	23.77
Trade receivables	9.60	7.47	5.73
Loan to Sample Trading LLP	3.00	0.90	0.45
Units of a debt mutual fund	4.00	4.20	4.12
Balances with banks	1.35	1.35	1.35
Total (INR crore)	57.95	57.14	35.41

Value of the valued entity's equity by approach

Approach	Method	Equity value	Weight	Weighted
Income	Discounted cash flow (FCFF)	45.38	60%	27.23
Market	Comparable companies	103.70	40%	41.48

	(EV/EBITDA)
Weighted equity value				68.70
Less: discount for lack of marketability			15.00%	10.31
Concluded equity value (INR crore)				58.40

Fair value combines the income and market approaches for the subsidiary, the expected recovery on receivables and the realisable value of the other assets. Liquidation value applies forced-sale recovery rates to each asset.

t) Caveats, Limitations and Disclaimers
